Eleven-year-old Bao Dang remembers watching in horror four years earlier as Communist soldiers dragged his parents from their home. Now an orphan, he begins a journey to escape the oppressive government of South Vietnam. The owner of a small boat, paid in gold, smuggles Bao and his cousin, Binh Pham, down the Saigon River at night to the South China Sea, where he and over one hundred other "boat people" pack into a trawler designed to hold fewer than thirty. For six days, they face danger from the police, weather, and pirates, not to mention the constant threat of capsizing as they take on water while living only on dry, rationed rice. Bao, Binh and the others hope a refugee camp in Indonesia accepts them, but there's no guarantee. Word has it they may be turned away and even towed back out to sea to starve. Eventually finding a safe haven, Bao harnesses the power of music to heal and help endure months of harsh and dangerous living while he and Binh await word from relatives in the United States, hoping they'll obtain the ultimate gift: freedom.

The planet Pern has been colonized for centuries by humans. When humans first settled on this world, they did not take notice of its sister planet, which had an indigenous life form that attempted to land on Pern when it came within reach. These silver "threads" fell in a destructive wave on the temperate lands of Pern once every 200 years, destroying all life they encountered. To combat this menace, the inhabitants of Pern developed a species of dragon that could burn these threads out of the sky before they touched down. Now, centuries have passed between threadfalls, and the danger of thread is considered a myth. However, a dragon rider named F'lar knows that the riders are once again needed.

A MIDWIFE carries a newborn to a forest cave. It's 527AD. NIMUEH, the sorceress, waits there to cast a spell, encasing the child in a crystal tomb, as she did to his father, Merlin. Nimueh kills the midwife to hide her secret. In 1921, EDWARD and CAROLYN WHITE take refuge in the same cave to get out of the rain. They discover the child, inadvertently releasing him, still alive. They decide to raise him. Nimueh feels her spell break. Rushing to the cave, she discovers the child gone. She conjures a mirror to find him, but is confronted by MERLIN, trapped, but powerful enough to appear to her. He casts a spell, hiding the child from discovery and destroys the mirror. The child, TALIESIN, TAL for short, shows abilities inherited from his father early on. His parents teach him to control them. The Druids know of Tal's existence and powers, and have one of their sons nearby to protect him, ARTHUR. Arthur and Tal grow up as best friends, while Nimueh guides Hitler and the Nazis to power, to further her ambition, the conquest of England. At sixteen, Tal is told the truth of his birth. Upset, he flees to a pond near his house to be alone. Arthur finds him, revealing that he knows about his abilities. The next day, a book appears only Tal can open. Once opened, spells rush off the book's pages to become part of his memory. World War 2 breaks out. Arthur enlists. Tal wants to join up too. Arthur's friends and fellow pilots, LANCE, WAYNE, and COLLINS convince him that he should. Arthur, knowing that Tal's destiny is to protect England, tells his father, who takes care of the situation, so when Tal tries to enlist, he is turned down. Soon after, Tal's parents are killed in a German bombing raid. Devastated, he loses control over his powers and breaks the protection spell, leaving Tal open to sensing others with magical abilities, including Arthur's father HUGH. Tal also discovers that Arthur was asked to keep an eye on him. He becomes furious and storms out of Arthur's home. A crystal pendant, found with Tal, begins to have a life of its own. With it, Tal discovers where a trapped Merlin is being held, and that it is the key to Merlin's freedom. Nimueh finds him there and battles him for the pendant's possession. Tal manages to release Merlin. Nimueh disappears, to signal the start of the invasion. Convincing Arthur and his friends to help, Merlin and Tal release one more weapon, four Dragons, that Tal awakens with an unknown ability - Dragonsong.
