Dunia menghadapi babak baru dalam “perang” menghadapi pemanasan global yang berdampak pada perubahan iklim dan cuaca ekstrem. Lewat Perjanjian Paris yang berlangsung pada 2015, dunia sepakat untuk mulai mengurangi penggunaan sumber energi yang menghasilkan emisi gas rumah kaca serta mulai memanfaatkan energi baru dan terbarukan (renewable energy). Indonesia pun tidak mau ketinggalan. Sebagai salah satu negara yang meratifikasi Perjanjian Paris 2015, Indonesia juga tengah berjuang untuk bisa mengurangi emisi gas rumah kaca, terutama dari segi pembangkit listrik. Saat ini, Presiden Joko Widodo gencar mempromosikan pembangunan sumber-sumber pembangkit listrik yang berasal dari energi terbarukan, seperti Pembangkit Listrik Tenaga Angin (PLTA) dan Pembangkit Listrik Tenaga Bayu (PLTB) di seluruh pelosok negeri. Di sisi lain, penggunaan sumber energi baru dan terbarukan di seluruh dunia mendorong tumbuhnya industri-industri baru berbasis renewable energy. Industri mobil listrik dan baterai penyimpanan energi (energy storage system) menjadi bidang industri baru yang banyak diminati konsumen. Tesla, raksasa mobil listrik dari

Amerika, telah membuat industri ini berkembang secara cepat dan masif. Indonesia punya potensi besar untuk menjadi raksasa baru dalam industri energi baru dan terbarukan. Sebab, Indonesia memiliki kandungan nikel—yang menjadi bahan baku utama dalam pengembangan industri mobil listrik dan baterai penyimpanan energi—terbesar di dunia. Rentetan perkembangan energi baru dan terbarukan di dunia, termasuk Indonesia, disulam dengan baik oleh Cyrillus Harinowo, Ph.D. dan Ika Maya Sari Khaidir, S.E., M.M. lewat Menuju Zaman Renewable Energy. Buku ini berusaha menjelaskan secara rinci keterkaitan antara tren penggunaan energi baru dan terbarukan di dunia, perkembangan industri mobil listrik dan energy storage system, dan prospek perekonomian Indonesia ke depan. Pada akhirnya, Menuju Zaman Renewable Energy adalah jawaban lengkap atas pertanyaan tentang kesiapan Indonesia menyongsong era baru pemanfaatan energi dan sumber daya alam.

Indonesia is the largest country in the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), accounting for around two fifths of the region's energy consumption. Energy demand across the country's more than 17,000 islands could increase by four fifths and electricity demand could triple between 2015 and 2030. While reliance on domestic coal and imported petroleum products has grown, Indonesia has started adding more renewables to its energy mix. The country has set out to achieve 23% renewable energy use by 2025, and 31% by 2050. REmap - the global roadmap from the International Renewable Energy Agency (IRENA) - addresses this challenge, presenting a range of technology and resource options, along with key insights on the opportunities and challenges ahead. As this REmap country report shows, Indonesia could feasibly exceed its current goals and deploy even more renewables. In fact, the country could reach its 2050 target two decades sooner - by 2030.

Indonesia has achieved an impressive 84% electrification ratio, but faces significant challenges in reaching the remaining 16% of its households. This report describes Indonesia's electrification environment and identifies barriers to achieving universal electricity access. Principles drawn from international best practices such as government commitment, enabling institutional environments, adequate and sustainable financing, and stakeholder coordination are discussed in the context of Indonesia's energy sector. The report gives recommendations for establishing service standards, streamlining financing, setting appropriate targets, and monitoring and evaluation, as well as near-term steps to help achieve universal electricity access.

A quick scan of any bookstore, library, or online bookseller will produce a multitude of books covering power systems. However, few, if any, are totally devoted to power distribution engineering, and none of them are true textbooks. Filling this vacuum in the power system engineering literature, the first edition of Electric Power Distribution System Engineering broke new ground. Written in the classic, self-learning style of the first edition, this second edition contains updated coverage, new examples, and numerous examples of MATLAB applications. Designed specifically for junior- or senior-level electrical engineering courses, the author draws on his more than 31 years of experience to provide a text that is as attractive to students as it is useful to professors and practicing engineers. The book covers all aspects of distribution engineering from basic system planning and concepts through distribution system protection and reliability. The author brings to the table years of experience and, using this as a foundation, demonstrates how to design, analyze, and perform modern distribution system engineering. He takes special care to cover industry terms and symbols, providing a glossary and clearly defining each term when it is introduced. The discussion of distribution planning and design considerations goes beyond the usual analytical and qualitative analysis and emphasizes the economical explication and overall impact of the distribution design considerations discussed. See what's new in the Second Edition: Topics such as automation of distribution systems, advanced SCADA systems, computer applications, substation grounding, lightning protection, and insulators Chapter on electric power quality New examples and MATLAB applications Substation grounding Lightning protection Insulators Expanded topics include: Load forecasting techniques High-impedance faults A detailed review of distribution reliability indices Watch Turan Gonen talk about his book at: <http://youtu.be/OZBd2diBzgk>
